ZUG2	ZUG2-UG Critical Anlysis (Adm)	A student studies the structure and workings of a discourse, cultural artifact, or institution that involves the use of a disciplinary or interdisciplinary methodology under the supervision of a faculty advisor. The scholarly study results in original interpretations or substantially new knowledge worthy of presentation or publication. Engaging in critical analysis is the major focus of the course.	Yes
ZUG3	ZUG3-UGCreativeExpression(Adm)	A student produces substantial original works in any of various media, including film, photography, painting, sculpture, play- and screenwriting, composition, musical and dramatic performance, and creative writing. Student artists ground their productions in systematic studies of art history, of art theory, and of the forms and media in which they are working, all of which engage traditional research methods. The student is self-directed in selecting the nature and scope of the project, while working under the guidance of a faculty advisor or other professional mentor. Production of original work at an advanced level is the major focus of the course.	Yes
ZUG4	ZUG4 - UGIntern/Practicum(Adm)	A student engages in a guided apprenticeship, externship, internship or practicum experience under the supervision of an approved mentor who interacts with the student on a frequent basis to discuss the student's progress, experiences and reflection on the activity. The student develops a working knowledge of the disciplinary literature relevant to the activity, maintains written documentation appropriate to his/her discipline, and submits a final project document that integrates the internship experience with his/her academic training.	Yes
